

Dylis returns from Australia to visit Testvale

In early December Dylis, who had danced with Testvale Squares for many years before moving to Australia, was back in the UK visiting close family, and joined us for a few Club nights to catch up with friends. Dylis and Carol are particularly close and it was lovely to see them picking up from the last meeting a few years ago.

Dylis learnt dancing at Testvale just before Covid hit in 2019 when she went along with a friend. She finished the Mainstream course in the UK then moved to Adelaide and found a Club out there after Covid and did a refresher course, and now dances with many clubs near her home, all having fabulous names such as Diggers Delights in Salisbury near Adelaide, also with Outlaws, McGill Diamonds and Sunset Twirlers where she is learning the Plus program. Square Dancing is very popular in Australia and conventions (dances) can have dozens of squares on the floor with venues in Tasmania, Darwin, Brisbane and all over Australia. Dylis is working on the committee for the Adelaide State convention in August this year. Sounds like we need a Testvale Squares trip out there!
